'A leader in every respect'

Tributes pour in for the province's first female lieutenant-governor

As a scientist, a chancellor, athlete and lieutenant-governor, Sylvia Fedoruk brought positive change to a countless number of people across the province and around the world.

"It's a sad day for Saskatchewan," said Premier Brad Wall on Thursday, a day after Fedoruk passed away at the age of 85.

"Here was a citizen of our province who was a leader in every respect. Obviously, academically, she was a pioneer."

Fedoruk, born in Canora, Sask., was a graduate of the University of Saskatchewan and the only female member on the research team responsible for developing the Cobalt 60 cancer therapy unit, also known as the "Cobalt Bomb" in 1951.

After years of dedicated work at the Saskatoon Cancer Clinic, she became the first female chancellor at U of S in 1986.

Vera Pezer, current chancellor at U of S, spoke very highly about her colleague and friend.

"Her life, and what she accomplished, speaks for itself," said Pezer. "She was a role model for success who was an inspiration to many people."

Listing a number of Fedoruk's achievements, Pezer referred to her as a pioneer for women in the sciences.

"She is a woman of international stature that will be there forever," said Pezer.

Fedoruk became the province's first female lieutenant-governor in 1988, proudly serving the province until 1995. Fedoruk was also an influential female athlete.

"She was a very special woman to us," said Nicole Betker, sports information director for Huskie Athletics.

While attending university, Fedoruk participated in basketball, volleyball, golf, softball and track and field. She was also a champion curler, being inducted into the Canadian Curling Hall of Fame in 1986.

Pezer said that Fedoruk never missed a Huskies women's basketball game.

"She was always there, sitting in the stands with her jersey on," said Pezer.

Latest figures

Province has had most growth in a single year since 1921: StatsCan

Saskatchewan's population has had the most growth in a single year since 1921.

The province says the latest figures from Statistics Canada show the population grew by 22,154 people between July 1, 2011 and this past July 1.

There were 1,079,958 people living in Saskatchewan as of July 1.

The numbers show the population grew by 6,851 in the most recent quarter alone.

That's the largest increase in a single quarter since Statistics Canada started keeping quarterly records in 1971.

Much of the most recent population gain came from people moving to the province from other countries. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ben Geiger woke up to police tape outside his window. While he didn't hear or see anything, he's not surprised at the sight.

"It's a tough neighbourhood. That's why a few fences have barbed wire on them," said the North Central resident Thursday.

"But normally being so close to Albert and Dewdney keeps heavier stuff away from this block."

Police tape marked the scene of a stabbing that sent two men to hospital Thursday — one with multiple stab wounds — after an early-morning fight in the 1400 block of Angus Street.

Investigators also found a knife near the scene at the McDonalds on Albert Street and Dewdney Avenue.

Regina police were dispatched to Angus Street at 2:05 a.m. Thursday after a report of a group of people fighting near Dewdney Avenue and Angus Street. Police and EMS arrived, locating a 32-year-old man in the area of 8th Avenue who appeared to have been stabbed several times.

At nearly the same time, officers found a second injured person, a 39 year-old man, on the back deck of a house in the 1400 block of Angus Street. The men were taken to hospital with serious injuries, but have since been upgraded to stable condition.

Regina police spokeswoman Elizabeth Popowich said officers have detained both a man and woman for questioning in relation to the matter, however it is not known if their involvement will result in charges.

Anyone who has information that could help police is asked to call the Regina Police Service at 777-6500.

1 Liz Brass

CARRIE-MAY SIGGINS/METRO

"I believe that there are other options for a stadium that we can achieve," Brass says on her website. "Respect taxpayers (and) collaborate with the private sector and other partners." To Metro, she said, "We all have to live with however we develop. If we must build a new stadium, get it right."

2 Marian Donnelly

CONTRIBUTED

Donnelly describes her vision for Regina as a place where "heritage buildings are protected instead of allowed to deteriorate and turned into demolition waste." It's also where "the labour force we need to succeed can afford to live in our city, whether new immigrants, aboriginal people or youth."

3 Michael Fougere

In his platform, Fougere promises to "make a housing summit my first priority." He also says "maximizing your tax dollars" is important. "We must continue to review all city operations to ensure we are focused on great customer service while directing resources to our core business activities."

CARRIE-MAY SIGGINS/METRO

4 Meka Okochi

Okochi chose to introduce his platform one plank at a time over a number of months. He told Metro, "I envision Regina as a vibrant world-class city, with advanced physical and digital infrastructure to support new opportunities and businesses. A high-quality destination for individuals and families to live in."

CARRIE-MAY SIGGINS/METRO

5 Jim Elliott

CONTRIBUTED

Elliott ran in 2009 against Pat Fiacco. He told Metro he is "committed to a caring, engaged city that always does its best. Housing for all, families and neighbourhoods first and no one left behind are my campaign themes. Protection of the environment and economic sustainability are paramount. I will be the citizens' advocate for and with the citizen."

A future worth cheering for.

Syrian government sends mass texts telling rebels to surrender

Psychological ploy. Army warns fighters it's time to lay down their weapons, get rid of foreign supporters

A man is comforted by an army sniper after the death of his brother in Aleppo, Syria, Thursday. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Syrian authorities sent text messages over cellphones nationwide Thursday with a message for rebels fighting President Bashar Assad's regime: "Game over."

The messages signed by the Syrian Arab Army also urged the rebels to surrender their weapons and warned the countdown to evict foreign fighters has begun. The texts appear to be part of the regime's psychological battle against the rebels, but are highly unlikely to have any effect on fighters intent on toppling Assad.

Syrians say they began receiving the messages a day after rebels bombed a military command centre in Damascus — a major security breach of the heavily guarded capital that highlighted the regime's vulnerability in the face of a rebellion growing in confidence and capabilities.

People with cellular subscriptions received the messages while those with prepaid phones did not.

Syria's two cellphone providers are privately owned, and the government would presumably have to pay for the service. Government officials were not available for comment.

In August, Syrian army helicopters dropped leaflets warning rebels in Damascus to hand over their arms and seek amnesty.

Despite Wednesday's high-profile attack, the two sides have been locked in a stalemate after 18 months of conflict. Activists say the death toll since the uprising against Assad began in March last year has topped 30,000, with nearly two-thirds of the casualties reported in the past five months.

On Thursday, rebel fighters launched a push to try to take control of Aleppo, Syria's largest city and a major strategic prize in a stalemated civil war, opposition activists said.

Heavy clashes erupted Thursday in more than a dozen locations in the city, Syria's largest with three million people, said Mohammed Saeed, a local activist. Government forces shelled several districts, he said, speaking via Skype.

Rebels also attacked a compound of Syria's political security department in the city, said Rami Abdul-Rahman, head of the Syrian Observatory for Human Rights.

Former VANOC head John Furlong fights back against abuse allegations

Denies any wrongdoing. Furlong threatens legal action over newspaper story alleging he abused aboriginal children

MATT KIELTYKA
Metro in Vancouver

John Furlong vows to take legal action against the Georgia Straight newspaper after it published a story alleging he physically and mentally abused aboriginal children as a teacher at a Burns Lake school.

The story, written by Laura Robinson and titled "Furlong bio omits secret past in Burns Lake," features allegations from alleged victims' signed affidavits that an 18-year-old Furlong ran physical-education classes at Immaculata Elementary School and abused students.

The former head of the Vancouver Organizing Committee for the 2010 Olympic and Paralympic Winter Games (VANOC), alongside lawyer Marvin Storrow, addressed media Thursday afternoon to issue a denial.

"As you are aware, I have been accused of physical abuse and apparently within the last hour, sexual abuse. I want you to know I categorically deny absolutely any wrongdoing and I believe that the RCMP, in looking into this matter, will discredit the complaint entirely because it just did not happen," Furlong read from a prepared statement.

"I feel that my character has been recklessly challenged and I have no choice now but to proceed with legal action."

The Georgia Straight story takes issue with claims made in Furlong's recent memoir, Patriot Hearts, that he arrived in Canada in 1974.

In his statement, Furlong said he omitted his time in Burns Lake because it was "fairly brief and fairly uneventful.

"I went back to Ireland and came to Canada years later as a landed immigrant," he said.

Furlong did not take any questions at the hastily called press conference in Vancouver, where the Order of Canada recipient now works as executive chairman of the Vancouver Whitecaps soccer club.

RCMP released a brief statement confirmed they're "aware of the allegations involving John Furlong and are investigating".

The Georgia Straight issued a brief reply Furlong's statement.

"The story was backed up with eight sworn affidavits. Marvin Storrow did not make Mr. Furlong available to respond to questions from the journalist, Laura Robinson," the weekly paper states.

"She also attempted without success to reach Mr. Furlong through his publisher, Douglas & McIntyre. Ms. Robinson was told that Mr. Furlong had "nothing more" to say to her."

Beijing murder conviction after decade-long wait

A decade of uncertainty ended with a cry of anger from a convicted murderer in a Beijing courtroom Thursday as Li Ang lashed out at the court that found him guilty of the 2002 killing of his girlfriend, Amanda Zhao.

The couple were studying in the Lower Mainland and lived together in Burnaby, B.C. when Zhao's body was found.

"It's unfair. I've been wronged," yelled Li after he was sentenced to life in prison, according to a relative of Zhao's who was in the courtroom.

The now 28-year-old Li was convicted of strangling Zhao in 2002 and stuffing her body in a suitcase before dumping it at Stave Lake on the outskirts of Vancouver.

Due to a lack of evidence, Li was released by Canadian authorities and fled Canada back to his native China where he lived with his parents and changed his name to Li Jiaming.

Investigators gathered enough evidence to charge Li after he had fled the country.

He was arrested last summer when Canadian authorities finally gave in and sent the evidence for the case to Beijing after a long battle in which China insisted the trial be conducted there.

As part of the agreement, China agreed to waive the death penalty.

Trials in China are notoriously quick, but this one took a full year.

Li's lawyer Zou Jiaming said little about why the case took a year to process. Zou said her client will appeal the intentional homicide guilty verdict.

"I don't know (why it took a year), it's the judge's business," said Zou from Beijing.

Zou said her client will appeal the intentional homicide guilty verdict.

Meanwhile, Zhao's parents will now continue with a civil suit against Li's parents.

Pro-life. 'Sex selection abortion' played role in backing motion

The federal cabinet minister responsible for the status of women has offered at least a partial explanation for why she voted in support of a pro-life motion.

Rona Ambrose says on Twitter that she's long been worried about discrimination against girls through "sex selection abortion."

Ambrose stunned observers Wednesday when she rose to her feet in favour of backbench MP Stephen Woodworth's motion to strike a committee to examine the definition of a human being.

Though the motion was defeated 203 to 91, Ambrose's tweet suggests she opted to support the motion as a way to raise awareness about the issue.

Ambrose was one of 10 federal Conservative cabinet ministers who supported the motion, despite the fact Prime Minister Stephen Harper has said he has no plans to reopen the abortion debate in Canada.

A Carney candidacy? Don't bank on it, his employer says

Liberal party gossip. Finance Minister Jim Flaherty says he has 'no concerns' about the effect of all the rumours on Carney's credibility

The Bank of Canada is trying to douse rampant speculation that Mark Carney is a potential candidate for the leadership of the Liberal party.

The bank pointed Thursday to an interview Carney gave last spring in which he said he's not contemplating a career in politics and insisted he's focused on his twin jobs as governor of Canada's central bank and chairman of the international Financial Stability Board.

However, his denials to date have not been sufficiently categorical to dissuade some Liberals from dreaming of a Carney candidacy.

A "Mark Carney for leader" Facebook page has popped up.

It has garnered one friend so far — Tim Murphy, one-time chief of staff to former prime minister Paul Martin.

It would spice things up

There is no doubt a Carney candidacy would be a coup for the once-mighty Liberal party, which was reduced to rubble in the 2011 election.

- His international stature and sterling economic credentials would give the party much-needed credibility and turn what is shaping up to be a Justin Trudeau cake-walk into a must-watch contest.

Murphy and another former Martin insider, Richard Mahoney, are among the names of influential Liberals rumoured to have urged Carney to take the plunge. Neither could be reached for comment.

Speculation about Carney's possible interest in the top Liberal job has swirled for a couple of years. But the rumour mill went into hyper-drive Wednesday after news broke that Justin Trudeau will formally launch his leadership bid Tuesday in Montreal.

Facebook bullying. Top court's anonymity ruling gets likes

The Supreme Court of Canada was widely praised Thursday for granting anonymity to a teenage girl so she can pursue a lawsuit over a bogus Facebook page that she says defamed her.

The ruling was welcomed as a necessary step in child protection in the Internet age, one that extends to victims of cyber-bullying the same legal right to anonymity that is currently granted to sexual assault complainants, children in family-law disputes and most accused criminals under the age of 18.

In a 7-0 ruling, the judges ruled that the girl is entitled to anonymity to prevent her from becoming a victim a second time. But the court also rejected her request for a publication ban on the broader details of the defamation suit, as long as those details don't identify her to the public at large.

Americans assemble for prayer

Christian conservatives who blame "moral depravity" for everything from the recession to terrorism are converging on Philadelphia for a rally they hope will spark a religious revival as the U.S. election nears.

Called "America for Jesus 2012," the prayer assembly is attracting support across a spectrum of Protestant clergy and activists. Among the scheduled speakers are religious broadcaster Pat Robertson and Family Research Council president Tony Perkins, along with preachers such as Cindy Jacobs of Generals International ministry who say they're prophets with a direct line to God.

John Blanchard, national co-ordinator for "America for Jesus 2012," said the two-day event starting Friday night is nonpartisan. It's modelled after the 1980 "Washington for Jesus" rally, considered a pivotal show of organizational strength by the then-fledgling Christian right. Bishop Anne Gimenez, whose late husband John helped lead the 1980 assembly, is a lead organizer of the Philadelphia gathering.

"We are praying that God would touch America," said Blanchard, executive pastor of Rock Church International in Virginia, which the Gimenez family founded.

Harper accepts an award in NYC, takes swing at UN

Named a statesman. Prime minister meets with Henry Kissinger, Haitian president instead of hearing Netanyahu, Abbas

Prime Minister Stephen Harper took a swipe at the United Nations and assailed Iran on Thursday as he picked up an international statesman award, suggesting once again that the UN has too often wooed dictators despite their appalling human-rights records and sinister aims.

Canadians expect their government officials to endeavour to make decisions "for the wider interests of humanity," Harper told a reception at the glitzy Waldorf Astoria hotel after receiving his award from the Appeal of Conscience Foundation.

Prime Minister Stephen Harper stayed a few blocks away from the UN building. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"That is, of course, not the same thing as trying to court every dictator with a vote at the United Nations, or just going along with every international consensus, no matter how self-evidently wrong-headed." Harper's shot at the UN came as he was criticized back home for once again skipping the United Nations General Assembly.

Hundreds of world leaders were gathered just a few blocks away discussing the biggest global issues of the day, including the situation in Syria, the ominous dispute between Israel and Iran and the eruption of anti-American violence in the Middle East.

The prime minister had harsh words for Iran as he accepted the foundation's "world statesman" award from storied U.S. statesman Henry Kissinger, Richard Nixon's onetime secretary of state.

The elderly Kissinger, now 89 and frail, met with Harper earlier in the day at his Park Avenue office and said later Thursday that he agreed with Harper's tough stand against Iran.

Canada recently closed its embassy in Tehran.

Snack makers roll out mid-calorie product offerings

Dieters know if you take the fat and calories out of your favourite treats, you sometimes say goodbye to the taste too. But snack brands like Dreyer's/Edy's ice cream, Hershey's chocolate and Lay's potato chips are trying to solve that by rolling out mid-calorie goodies with more fat and calories than the snacks of earlier diet crazes. Windows 8 is 'a very big deal,' says Gates

Microsoft founder Bill Gates on Thursday called the new Windows 8 operating system scheduled for release next month "a very exciting new product" and "a very big deal" for the world's largest software maker.

Gates said he is already using Windows 8 "and I'm very pleased with it." Windows 8, to be released Oct. 26, is Microsoft's biggest overhaul of Windows in more than a decade and the company's attempt to stay relevant and exciting in a world where mobile gadgets have started to overshadow personal computers. Cost cutting shifts burden to provinces, budget officer says

Financial outlook. Parliamentary official projects lower levels of government will add enough debt to resemble Greece, Italy

Ottawa's cost-cutting measures have put it on a sound fiscal track for the future, but the provinces are left holding the bag, says Canada's budget watchdog.

Parliamentary Budget Officer Kevin Page's latest long-term projection on government finances suggests Ottawa has little to fear from the loss of revenue and rising costs tied to the aging population.

Page also judges the Canada Pension Plan and Quebec Pension Plan fiscally sound.

But the report, released Thursday, shows provinces and municipalities adding so much debt over the next 70 years or so they would resemble Greece and Italy if something is not done.

The report calculates that provinces and their municipalities have a fiscal gap of about two per cent of gross domestic product now — or $36 billion — and by 2086 will have debt worth 350 per cent of GDP. Meanwhile, Ottawa will be in a structural surplus.

Page cautions that this is a "what if" scenario and is not a forecast, but adds that governments need to be aware of the fiscal track they're following to ensure they make the right policy decisions.

"We're not saying in the report that the provinces have to panic and start taking measures right now," Page said in an interview.

"But in terms of dealing with aging demographics ... if they wait five years the gap goes from something like two to 2.3 (per cent of GDP). If you wait 10 years it goes to 2.6. If you wait 20 years it's well over three per cent (and) it starts increasing exponentially."

In essence, the federal government has already taken "decisive" measures to address the fiscal gap, Page said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Big Pharma. U.S. prosecutors extract $30B in settlements

U.S. federal and state prosecutors have collected more than $30 billion US from drug companies for alleged fraud and illegal marketing over the last 20 years, according to a new report by consumer advocacy group Public Citizen.

The report shows state attorneys are increasingly following the lead of federal prosecutors in seeking multimillion-dollar settlements with drugmakers such as GlaxoSmithKline and Eli Lilly & Co. Analysis by Public Citizen found state governments have collected $3.7 billion US from drugmakers since 2009, or roughly six times more money than in the previous 18 years combined.

Overcharging state health plans like Medicaid was the most common allegation, while unapproved drug marketing was the most costly, the group says.

By the numbers

$6.6B

State and federal attorneys have collected $6.6 billion US through mid-July this year, setting a new record for settlement totals in a single year.

Drug companies are permitted to market drugs only for uses that have been approved by the Food and Drug Administration. Prosecutors have increasingly pursued cases of off-label marketing, or promoting drugs for unapproved uses.

Governments are spending more on prescription drugs as programs like Medicare and Medicaid swell with aging baby boomers. That increased spending has attracted scrutiny from investigators looking to recover taxpayer money. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Publishing. Bookstores bet on Rowling's adult novel

British bookshops opened their doors early Thursday and some grown-up Harry Potter fans lined up overnight as J.K. Rowling launched her long-anticipated first book for adults, The Casual Vacancy.

Published five years after the release of the last book in the boy wizard saga, Rowling's new novel is already at No. 1 on Amazon's U.S. chart, and bookmaker William Hill put 2-1 odds on it outselling Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows, which shifted 2.6 million copies in Britain on its first day.

Though reviews have been mixed, booksellers are confident The Casual Vacancy will be one of the year's best-sellers. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE LIST
Neil Morton

1 Sam Sniderman. The founder of the iconic Sam the Record Man died this week at the age of 92. Everyone of a certain age remembers their time at Sam's stores across Canada, sifting through records from new Canadian bands Sam introduced, along with obscure titles and international stars. Many bought their first record there. Including me: If memory serves, Michael Jackson's Thriller.

2 Torrey Smith. After his younger brother died in a motorcycle crash early Sunday, the Baltimore Ravens receiver went out and put on a heroic show that night — catching two touchdown passes to lead his Baltimore Ravens to a 31-30 comeback win over the New England Patriots. While the (boring) Emmys were on another channel, the real drama was happening in this game.

3 Weday.com. The likes of Hedley, Jennifer Hudson and Al Gore will be at Free the Children's We Day in Toronto Friday, an annual event to inspire and celebrate the youth movement for local and global change. My daughter is lucky enough to be one of the attendees. Watch for upcoming WeDay events in Calgary, Winnipeg, Montreal and Vancouver. Be the change.

4 Billie Joe Armstrong. After his epic, profanity-laden onstage meltdown at a Las Vegas show in a YouTube video that went viral, it was obvious something was wrong with Green Day's lead singer. It was explained days later, when the band announced he entered rehab seeking treatment for substance abuse. Yes, rehab is — just as hookups and breakups are — par for the course in celeb land.

5 10 Reasons Why... A British woman, Emily Hatridge, has a hilarious YouTube TV show called 10 Reasons Why..., which has wry episodes on topics including plastic surgery, dieting, sex tapes, cheating and dating. Her clever premise is that "everything in the world can be explained with 10 reasons." Which in our ADD-world works brilliant. Or maybe five reasons would work better.

6 Flavour Flav. At the iHeartRadio Music Festival, Public's Enemy's Flavour Flav was super excited to meet Gwen Stefani backstage — "Gwen Stef-annnnni!" he said in excitement after meeting her. Only problem is it wasn't Gwen Stefani, it was Miley Cyrus. And Miley didn't correct him. It's OK: When people mistake me for David Beckham or Brad Pitt, I don't correct them either.

7 Buzz Bishop. Calgary media personality Buzz Bishop received worldwide media attention — and much backlash — after writing a blog post in which he admitted to liking his five-year-old son Zacharie more than his two-year-old Charlie: "If I were to be absolutely honest, my older son is my favorite of the two," he said. I don't know what else to say, except WTF was he thinking saying that?

8 Myspace 2.0. Struggling to reinvent itself, the social network owned in part by Justin Timberlake released a well-received teaser video this week displaying a massive redesign — kinda of a Pinterest/Facebook/Instagram/Twitter combo. The focus is more on music and the creative community. With JT behind it and still 54 million fans, a comeback is possible.

9 Speechless in Seattle. Green Bay defeated Seattle Monday night when they intercepted a Hail Mary pass on the last play. Except the replacement refs (the regular refs were locked out) awarded the Seattle receiver a TD, giving the Seahawks victory. And creating a Twitter frenzy from appalled fans. "These games are a joke," Hall of Fame Troy Aikman tweeted. Indeed.

10 Tuxedo Stan. The feline whose owner has him cheekily running for Halifax's mayoral race to raise awareness about stray cats in the city got a huge endorsement this week when Anderson Cooper plugged him on The Ridiculist segment on CNN. There are now 6,500 people and counting on his Stan's Tuxedo Party Facebook page. That's way more than his closest competitor. A human.

11 Justin Trudeau. The 40-year-old son of late PM Pierre Trudeau is expected to announce his leadership run for the federal Liberal Party Tuesday, making politics in Canada immediately far more interesting and "sexy." Trudeau has a great shot at winning, so long as Tuxedo Stan (see No. 10) doesn't run.

In the house Hitler was born in

Austria

Real estate tainted by Nazi leader

An exterior view of Adolf Hitler's birth house in Braunau am Inn, Austria, is seen Thursday.

With its thick walls, huge arched doorway and deep-set windows, the 500-year-old house near the town square would normally be prime property. Because Hitler was born here, it has become a huge headache for town fathers forced into deciding what to do with a landmark so intimately linked to evil.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Recent departure

- The building was most recently used as a workshop for the mentally ill, which some saw as atonement for the murders of tens of thousands of disabled people by the Nazi regime. But that tenant moved out last year for more modern quarters.
- The departure reignited debate on what to do with the house, with the mayor declaring he preferred creating apartments over turning the building into an anti-Nazi memorial.

'Stigmatized'

"We are already stigmatized ... We, as the town of Braunau, are not ready to assume responsibility for the outbreak of World War II."

Johannes Waidbacher
Mayor of Braunau am Inn
told the Austrian daily Der Standard

Tourists visit

Fear of attracting neo-Nazis persists

One major fear: The house could fill up with Hitler worshippers if converted into living space.

"These are certainly people we don't want here," said town council member Harry Buchmayr, noting that most visitors are not normal tourists, but neo-Nazis stopping to pay homage to Hitler, even though he spent only the first few months of his life in the building.

Bruce Willis and Joseph Gordon-Levitt play the same character in the time travel flick Looper. HANDOUT

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Nothing average in this film about Joe

Looper. Joseph Gordon-Levitt channels Bruce Willis in time travel flick. Metro's Ned Ehrbar sits in for Mark Breslin this week

Richard: Ned, the actors aren't the stars of the movie, the ideas are. Is it airtight? Nope, but what time travel movie is? Future crime bosses could have done the killing themselves and sent the bodies back to be disposed of, but where's the fun in that? We need the two Joes in one place to get the story revved. It's what happens after that is interesting. Did you buy into the story?

Ned: I totally bought into the story, thanks in large part to how it's told. Having been a huge fan of Rian Johnson's first film, Brick, I realize I'm more than a little predisposed to love this. He takes the noir brushstrokes used in that film and sends them into the future, creating one that's gritty and real enough to be believable. Heck, he even makes time travel and telekinesis feel mundane within the world of the film, which is a neat trick.

RC: It sure is. He uses the sci-fi premise to allow the character of Joe in both forms to examine his life; past, present and future, and discover what's really important to him. It's humanist science fiction that values people over special effects. It's also a wildly entertaining chase movie, with enough sci-fi to keep the left side of your brain engaged while the right brain will thrill to the chase.

NE: I'll admit I was wary of the decision to use prosthetic makeup to make Joseph Gordon-Levitt look more like Bruce Willis, but they pull it off for the most part. And the way the two actors work together to create one character — rather than have Gordon-Levitt just do a Willis impression — is fantastic. It's also the most I've enjoyed Willis in years.

RC: It's two, two Joes in one. I thought Gordon-Levitt nailed the cadences of Willis's voice. Willis is Willis, but he does world-weary like no one else. I also enjoyed Emily Blunt as a protective mother whose son (Pierce Gagnon) is on Old Joe's hit list. Ditto Jeff Daniels who takes a break from The Newsroom to play the looper boss.

NE: Great performances all around, for sure, in a movie that's smart, well-made and just so much fun. I wish I could go back in time to brag to myself about having seen it.

Synopsis

Thirty years in the future time travel is illegal. The only people who use it are criminal organizations who send undesirables back to the past to be disposed of. Joe (Joseph Gordon-Levitt) is an experienced looper — or present day trigger-man. He doesn't count on a crime lord from the future ordering his loop be closed. That is, sending his future self, Old Joe (Bruce Willis), to present day to be executed.

Drama

Won't Back Down

Director. Daniel Barnz

Stars. Maggie Gyllenhaal, Viola Davis

If it weren't for alluring performances from Oscar-nominees Viola Davis and Maggie Gyllenhaal, Won't Back Down would be as bland as its uninspired title. A heavy-handed drama about a single mother and an overworked teacher who use bureaucracy to overtake a failing school, the Daniel Barnz (Beastly) drama is predictably aimed at rousing audiences. But while topical enough in today's times, the obvious outcome won't make the grade with most audiences.

STEVE GOW

Family/Comedy

Hotel Transylvania

Director. Genndy Tartakovsky

Stars. Adam Sandler, Selena Gomez

It's not that the notion of a hotel exclusively for misunderstood monsters seeking refuge from hostile humans isn't clever, but in Hotel Transylvania at least, the premise overstays its welcome. Featuring the voices of such talents as a vampiric Adam Sandler and Selena Gomez, the family-friendly film aims high with a visual play on gothic gags that unfortunately only endure as long as you are entertained by such things as flatulent B-movie monsters.

STEVE GOW

Comedy/Musical

Pitch Perfect

Director. Jason Moore

Stars. Anna Kendrick, Rebel Wilson, Brittany Snow

A toe-tappin', fun lovin' descendant of Glee, Pitch Perfect brings together talented actors and singers in yet another 21st century spin on Judy Garland / Mickey Rooney "Let's put on a show" genre. There's just enough freshman romance, competition, irony and bitchery to fill out a musical about a girl group competing for national a capella honours following a humiliating loss the previous year. There's every college stereotype in the book and there's nothing new but the musical performances make it sing.

Jennifer Hudson and Terrence Howard star in Winnie, which opens next Friday. HANDOUT

Love in the time of apartheid

Winnie. Filmmaker looked at a major historical event through the relationship of Mandela and ex-wife

scene@metronews.ca

Darrell Roodt has taken flak for casting American actors in Winnie — his biopic about Nelson and Winnie Mandela. But the South African filmmaker is making no apologies.

"It's fine for Clint Eastwood to come to town and bring Morgan (Freeman)," defended Roodt recently referencing the American icon's 2009 hit Invictus. "But as soon as a South African does it, he gets nailed to the wall. My answer to this is very simple: I didn't hire American actors to play Nelson and Winnie, I hired great actors to play them."

The veteran director may have cast Oscar winner Jennifer Hudson and nominee Terrence Howard to bring the one-time president and first-Lady of South Africa to the big screen but he believes the proof is in the stars' stellar performances — particularly Howard who not only takes on the uncanny appearance of Mandela, but did so even before it was necessary.

"He was astonishing. He was my choice when I was writing it and just to be around him when he was doing that was quite amazing," said Roodt. "He was Mandela six months before he came to shoot. Every time I had a phone conversation with him it was like talking to Mandela on the phone."

While the film (which hits theatres October 5) mostly centres on the controversial life of Winnie Mandela (who was an aggressive anti-apartheid activist all throughout her ex-husband's 27-year incarceration), Roodt also saw the drama as a beautiful love story.

"The book that it's based on, the very last line says 'and so one of the great love stories of the 20th Century came to an end'," explained Roodt. "When I read that I just thought that's such a perceptive insight into this story."

"I guess there's stuff that surprises me. I really haven't gone into deep, heavy discussions with people about the time travel logic and what they got and what they didn't, but so far the most surprising thing has been the stuff that we were trying to communicate seems to have gotten through. When you're making a movie, it feels like to some degree you're putting a message in a bottle and chucking it out to sea, and years later to talk to people who've seen it and hear that things landed for them, that feels really good."

With three young kids already at home, Jennifer Garner says she's not planning to have any more children, despite husband Ben Affleck's desire for a bigger family.

But then that's the thing about plans: "I am not pregnant now. I plan to be done," Garner tells Ellen DeGeneres in an interview. "But my husband is kind of a wonder sperm kind of guy.

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

Russell Brand

Branding relationships

At this point, Russell Brand has been talking about his marriage to and divorce from Katy Perry almost as long as they were actually wed. In a candid interview with Australia's 60 Minutes, the British comedian talks about why things didn't work out between him and Perry. "Sometimes it goes well, sometimes it don't, but if you sort of sense there's an incompatibility, then in any relationship regardless of the status of the individual, it kind of is best to go separate ways," he says.

"I think if you're a devoted tennis professional and you get married to a crystal meth addict, you might have trouble. I've been in a lot of trouble."

The Word

The latest in ridiculous celebrity baby names

Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

The new trend in Hollywood baby names? Naming your child after a geographical location. In the past month, Nick Lachey and wife Vanessa Minnillo named their baby Camden, as did Kristin Cavallari and fiancé Jay Cutler. Next up in the locale-as-a-name trend? Reese Witherspoon, who gave birth to a baby boy named Tennessee James on Thursday. "Reese Witherspoon and husband Jim Toth welcomed Tennessee James into their family today," her rep confirmed to People magazine. "Both mom and baby are healthy and the entire family is thrilled." For those of you who are keeping track at home (and hopefully none of you are), let me bear the brunt of this useless information for you. There's also Brooklyn Cruz (son of Victoria and David Beckham), Bronx Mowgli Wentz (son of Ashlee Simpson and Pete Wentz, Egypt (son of Alicia Keys and Swizz Beatz), Paris Jackson (daughter of Michael Jackson and some very well-paid egg donor), and India Hemsworth (daughter of Chris Hemsworth and Elsa Pataky). As for me, I'm holding out for a little Tajikistan Spears some time in the near future.

What if it's all been a lie? So much time, effort and column space has been spent dissecting the marriage (Demi is a cougar!) and the eventual divorce (Ashton likes cheap, young Vegas tail!) between Ashton Kutcher and Demi Moore.

And you know what? We shouldn't have. Really. As it looks like there wasn't a valid marriage to begin with.

Cook modern Indian fare just like Vikram Vij

Marinated Lamb Popsicles. The famed Vancouver chef shares the secret to his eatery's signature dish

life@metronews.ca

This recipe serves six. VIJ'S RESTAURANT

Since 1994, Vikram Vij and his wife Meeru Dhalwala have been serving up Indian food in their Vancouver restaurant Vij.

The creations have won them praise (the New York Times called the eatery "easily among the finest Indian restaurants in the world") and accolades, including the title of Best Restaurant in Canada by a vacay.ca, a North-America-wide study.

The famed chef has even expanded his empire to include cookbooks and frozen foods that are free of all preservatives, hormones and gluten (vijs.ca).

Extremely proud of his Indian roots, Vij has also become an advocate of education into Indian food and cooking.

He shares his recipe for Marinated Lamb Popsicles with Fenugreek Cream Curry.

"This is our signature dish at Vij's — probably our most famous and most popular," Vij says. "The size of the Lamb Popsicles will depend on th e rack of lamb you buy. If the popsicles are bigger, four per order is usually enough. This recipe is for 30 medium-size popsicles, with five per order. Serve these popsicles over new potatoes."

Ingredients

Lamb
- 1/4 cup sweet white wine
- 3/4 cup grainy yellow mustard
- 1 tsp salt
- 1 tsp ground black pepper
- 4 lbs French-cut racks of lamb, in chops

Curry Sauce
- 4 cups whipping cream
- 1 tbsp salt
- 1 tsp paprika
- 1/2 tsp ground cayenne pepper
- 1 tbsp dried green fenugreek leaves
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1/4 cup canola oil
- 3 tbsp finely chopped garlic
- 1 tsp turmeric

1. Combine wine, mustard, salt and pepper in large bowl. Add lamb and coat well with marinade. Cover bowl with plastic wrap and refrigerate 2 to 4 hours.

2. In bowl, combine cream, salt, paprika, cayenne, fenugreek leaves and lemon juice.

3. Heat 3 to 4 tbsp of oil in medium pot on medium heat and sauté garlic until golden. Stir in turmeric and cook 1 minute. Stir in cream mix and cook on low to medium heat for about 5 minutes, or until it is gently boiling.

4. Preheat stove-top cast iron grill or barbecue to high heat. Place lamb on grill and cook 3 minutes per side.

5. Serve popsicles piping hot off grill. Place four to five lamb chops on each plate. Pour cream curry over meat or ladle it into small bowl and use as dipping sauce for popsicles.

Liquid Assets

Germany can compliment India's finest

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therealwineguy
liquidassets@eastlink.ca

Readers are always asking me for a cheat sheet to help them make the perfect food and wine pairing.

While I really wish I had one, the best advice I can give is to look for synergy. By that I mean eats and drinks that originate in the same place always taste better together.

The closer the origins of both the liquid and solid are, the better the marriage will be because winemaking is the yin to the culinary industry's yang.

So what do you do when a country is famous for its unique cuisine but not for its wine output?

India is a classic example. Though it's been pressing grapes for decades, it doesn't export much and the eclectic nature of a plate of Indian-themed eatables is almost grounds for divorce when trying to create the perfect wine marriage.

The crisp effervescence of a dry sparkling wine is a good way to go. As is a white with a hint of sweetness.

The Germans do that kind of vino best, with Schmitt Söhne's 2011 Relax Riesling — a bright, refreshing wine that will soften the blow of even the most aggressive curried dishes.

PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Rams headed for collision with Manitoba Bisons

One 3-1 record will fall as the University of Regina Rams and Manitoba Bisons meet Friday at Mosaic Stadium.

The Rams are riding a three-game winning streak and have owned the Bisons. Both teams have 3-1 records to start their respective seasons. The Rams have won the last six contests between the teams and haven't dropped a game to Manitoba since August 2008. Kickoff is Friday at 7 p.m. at Mosaic Stadium.

The Regina Thunder will be looking to rebound after a crushing defeat at the hands of the Saskatoon Hilltops, who clapped the Thunder 42-17 last week at Mosaic. The Thunder hit the road to take on the Winnipeg Rifles at noon on Sunday. METRO

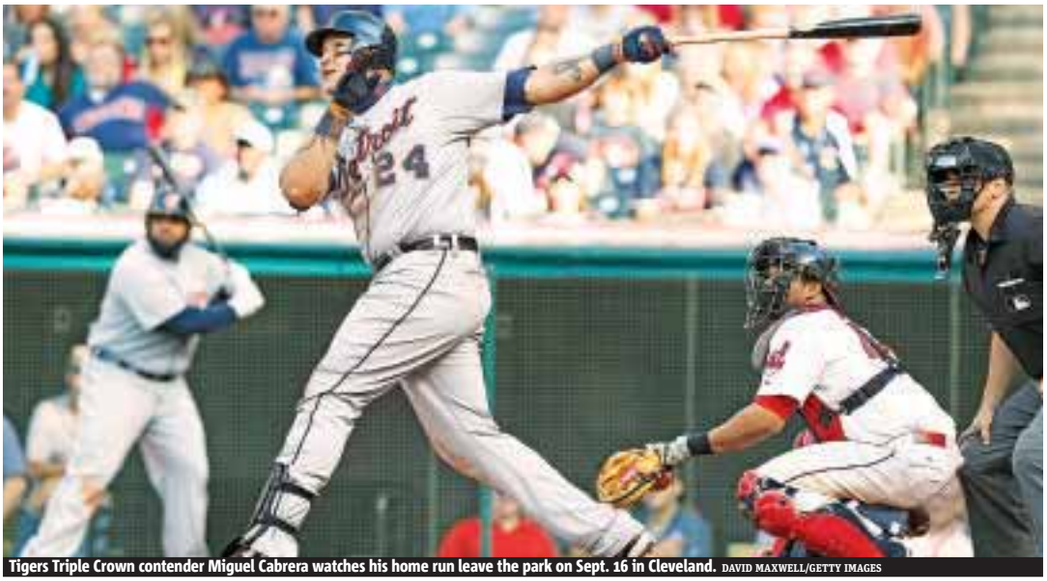
Pats look to force the issue vs. Ice

The Regina Pats see physical play, discipline, and winning foot races as keys to a win Friday on the road against the Kootenay Ice.

"We'll be looking to get off to a good start where we can control the tempo of the game," said assistant coach Malcolm Cameron. "We want to make them play defence by getting the puck in and playing physical. Playing on the road is about the foot races for loose pucks and the battles once you get there. We will keep it simple and disciplined."

Friday marks the home opener for the Kootenay Ice. The Pats continue their road trip Saturday night in Medicine Hat.

METRO



Tigers Triple Crown contender Miguel Cabrera watches his home run leave the park on Sept. 16 in Cleveland. DAVID MAXWELL/GETTY IMAGES

Entering the home stretch to history

MLB. Tigers' Cabrera has real shot at Triple Crown as season nears end

Miguel Cabrera's drive sailed high into the Detroit night — so high, in fact, that left-fielder Alex Gordon had time to drift over to the fence and wait a couple seconds before reaching over and robbing the slugger of a home run.

That snapshot was a good example of why nobody has won baseball's Triple Crown in 45 years. It takes a special blend of power, discipline, consistency — and yes, luck, if you believe in such a thing. But Cabrera is making perhaps the strongest bid since Carl Yastrzemski accomplished the feat in 1967.

With six games remaining, Detroit's 29-year-old third baseman tops the American League in batting average and RBIs and trails home-run leader Josh Hamilton by only one.

"I heard a lot from the fans about the Triple Crown. I can't repeat most of it, but I'm sure you can guess," said Gordon, the Kansas City outfielder who did his part to slow Cabrera's pursuit by taking that homer away Wednesday night.

Cabrera won his first batting title last year, hitting .344 to complete a "career triple crown" after winning home run and RBI titles in previous seasons. Now he's trying to become the first player since Yastrzemski to sweep all three categories at the same time.

Yastrzemski figures it's only a matter of time before somebody new joins the club. Since his Triple Crown season, other seemingly unapproachable marks have been surpassed.

"When Rose broke Cobb's hit record, I never thought that would happen," Yastrzemski said. "When Ripken broke Gehrig's consecutive game record, I never thought that would happen either. So it's going to happen."

In 1967, Yastrzemski hit .326 with 44 homers and 121 RBIs.

After Thursday's 5-4 victory over Kansas City, Cabrera was hitting .326 with 42 homers and 133 RBIs.

"I want to keep my game the same way," Cabrera said recently. "I don't want to put extra pressure because we've got a lot of pressure right now in our division. I think it's going to be a big mistake if I put extra pressure on myself."

Jeff Bagwell was the only recent player to finish in the top two in each Triple Crown category; in the strike-shortened 1994 season, he was first in RBIs and second in both average and homers. In 1992, Gary Sheffield led the National League in hitting but finished two behind in the home-run race and nine back in RBIs.

Roughriders face test against CFL's best

Riders coach Corey Chamblin says his club is "trying to get tougher mentally" with the Lions coming to Regina on Saturday. LIAM RICHARDS/THE CANADIAN PRESS FILE

In the final stages of preparation for a clash with the league-leading B.C Lions, both coach Corey Chamblin and quarterback Darian Durant emphasized defence.

"With the B.C Lions team coming here we are trying to get tougher mentally," said Chamblin. "I think they are pretty tough, they are just a bigger group but I think we will be ready for them."

Durant added: "This is a huge game for us to try and keep pace in the standings. You just have to put pressure on those (B.C.) guys and I think that starts with our defence."

Riders defensive tackle Keith Shologan will be unable to play due to injury. Rookie Zach Evans will be taking his place.

"Being able to get some action while Sholo is out will be good for him and help him grow," Chamblin said of Evans.

The status of receiver Chris Getzlaf, however, is still unknown.

"Getty was out there for the whole practice," said Chamblin. "I didn't see him out there moaning and groaning too much so hopefully he is healthy enough to play." JEFF MACKEY/METRO

Paul Henderson, centre, speaks alongside teammates from the '72 Summit Series during the team's induction into Canada's Walk of Fame in Toronto, earlier this month. The month-long celebration of Team Canada's famous victory over the Soviet Union concludes this weekend. NATHAN DENETTE/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Raising a glass to the heroes of '72

40th anniversary.
Weekend gala dinner to conclude a celebration of hockey history, and Canada's shot heard around the world

Paul Henderson still can't explain it, even 40 years later.

Sitting on the bench with time winding down in the eighth and final game of the '72 Summit Series, Henderson abruptly stood up and yelled at Pete Mahovlich to come off.

"I felt I had to get on the ice," Henderson recalled recently. "A tie was no good, they were going to claim victory because they had scored more goals than we did. I really wish I had an answer, but I don't. I just felt I had to get out there, I felt I could score a goal."

He was right, of course.

Henderson fired a rebound past the Soviet Union's Vladislav Tretiak to give Canada a series-clinching 6-5 victory at Moscow's Luzhniki Ice Palace.

Exactly 40 years to the day after that iconic goal, the 69-year-old Henderson and the remaining members of the Canadian squad will cap a month of celebrations with a gala dinner Friday night.

Henderson, who has been battling cancer since 2010, was one of Canada's top goal scorers in the Summit Series. But his deciding goal remains one of the biggest and most memorable in Canadian hockey history, a fact he didn't really appreciate until watching Sidney Crosby's winning goal for Canada at the 2010 Winter Games in Vancouver.

"I think one of the things we don't do well as Canadians is celebrate a lot of times, but especially with hockey," Henderson said. "When Crosby scored, man, I was jumping up and down and so I understand what Canadians were doing when I scored."

But Henderson wouldn't have scored if not for Phil Esposito, the heart and soul of the '72 team who fired the first shot at Tretiak.

"I was at the faceoff dot to the right of Tretiak," Esposito said.

"Like nine out of 10 times I hit the net, I very seldom missed the net when I had an opportunity to hit it ... and Tretiak, for some unexplained reason, pushed the rebound straight out and Paul, who had fallen behind the net, got up and came out because they must have lost him, just came out and put the rebound in."

Hollywood couldn't have written it better, Henderson said.

"I'm 69 and I can't think of anybody who has lived a better life than I have, even with cancer," he said. "I wouldn't change places with anybody. Canadians celebrate this, I get it every day, and I think it was a meaningful time for Canadians who were alive and can remember at that point."

THE CANADIAN PRESS

He shoots ... he scores!

Paul Henderson's heroics weren't limited to Game 8 of the 1972 Summit Series.

- Henderson registered 10 points for Canada with seven goals and three assists in the eight game series.
- He also scored the winning goals in the sixth and seventh games which the Canadians also had to win after dropping three games to the Soviet's.

Regular referees return to the field

The replacement officials are gone and the NFL is sorry it took so long. Now fans can go back to complaining about the calls made by the regular refs.

The sport's experiment with replacements ended Thursday night when a veteran crew worked the Browns-Ravens game.

Commissioner Roger Goodell apologized to fans for the anxiety of the last three weeks while denying that using replacement officials increased the chances of flagrant mistakes.

After two days of marathon negotiations, the NFL and the officials announced at midnight Wednesday that a tentative eight-year deal had been reached to end the lockout. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Try to see those you deal with as individuals in their own right rather than as pieces on a chessboard to be moved at your whim. Paying attention to other people's needs today will bring benefits to you as well.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
Take stock of your daily routine and decide where you can make savings in time and effort. Also make sure your physical health is not compromised in any way. If you feel you need a break then take one.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
Saturn, the taskmaster of the zodiac, moves out of your fellow Air sign of Libra in a week or so but already it feels as if your personal load is less heavy. Try not being quite so serious about life.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
You need to focus more on domestic matters today, and that means less time for social activities. There will be plenty of time for fun and games later but for now you must put loved ones first.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
Interesting new people will come into your life today and over the weekend, the kind of people who inspire you and know how to make you laugh. All in all, the world seems a better, happier, sunnier place.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
Both at home and at work you are encouraged to pay more attention to the value you place on both possessions and relationships. Some things are worth fighting for. Some things are for life. Do you know what they are?

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
As Saturn nears the end of its two-year journey through your sign, you should look back and learn from events that may not always have been to your liking. Admit it: they've made you a better person.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
You need to face up to problems that you have somehow managed to avoid these past few months. You can hide your feelings from others but you cannot hide them from yourself, so do what has to be done — now!

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
The planets are asking you to push your pride to one side and admit, if only to yourself, that you don't know all the answers. This can be a time of positive change in your life, but you must be humble.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
Saturn, your ruler, is making its last push through the career area of your chart, so opportunities on the work front can be expected. The fact is you are capable of so much more — so start doing it.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
If knowledge is power then you will gain in strength over the next few days and by the time Saturn changes signs on Oct. 5, you will be on your way to fame and glory. Will it really be that good? Yes!

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
Money matters take centre stage today and you will need to be sensible. Most of all, you need to realize that certain goals will only be reached if you are ready and willing to work with other people.
